

Scottish Forestry
Coilltearachd
na h-Alba

The James
Hutton
Institute

Scottish Government
Riaghaltas na h-Alba
gov.scot

Integrating woodland on new entrant farms and crofts – an interactive lunchtime webinar from the Scottish NEFERTITI hub

Tuesday 22nd September 12.30 – 2pm

This interactive lunchtime webinar will be hosted by Lynbreck Croft, who will share their experiences of woodland expansion and tree planting, navigating grant systems, and providing practical advice. You will also hear from Lyn White, Scottish Forestry who will outline the grant options available to support woodland expansion on new entrant farms and crofts. Finally, the webinar will feature a virtual tour of the Glensaugh Farm Agroforestry Project, plus the opportunity for experience-sharing and discussion between participants.

Book your place on the webinar and join the mailing list by emailing: carol.kyle@hutton.ac.uk

All welcome but places are limited to support group discussion - book your place now!

This virtual demonstration and webinar is supported by the EU-funded NEFERTITI project and the Scottish Government's Agricultural Transformation for Environment and Climate Change team. The NEFERTITI project aims to support peer-to-peer learning and innovation uptake through on-farm or virtual farm demonstrations across European-wide agricultural networks. The webinar will be chaired by Dr Annie McKee, social researcher at the James Hutton Institute, a partner in the NEFERTITI project.

Further information is available via the NEFERTITI website (<https://nefertiti-h2020.eu/>), the Scottish NEFERTITI Hub Facebook page, or by joining the Scottish NEFERTITI Hub mailing list.

